Forward

The Homa Bay County Government has made significant steps in the elimination of Sexual and Gender Based Violence through development of a policy framework that will comprehensively promote, prevent, protect, and co-ordinate the myriad phases of Sexual and Gender Based Violence. The policy addresses issues affecting Gender and Violence with regards to social, political, and economic forms of violence against boys, girls, women and men by ventilating on the mechanisms of addressing them.

The policy framework developed is coherent with the International, National legislative policy instruments to which Kenya is a signatory as provided in the Constitution 2010 under Article 2(6). The policy seeks to protect women, men, girls and boys against Sexual and Gender Based Violence.

The policy should reinforce legislative framework already in force alongside other legislations. The County of Homa Bay seeks to develop and support all programs and projects aimed at empowering the survivors of SGBV in the County. Gender-Based Violence not only violates human rights but also hampers productivity, reduces human capital and undermines economic growth within the County.

The policy framework will strengthen mechanisms and strategies that enhance accountability, co-ordination, monitoring and evaluation for sustainable Sexual and Gender Based Violence programs and projects while enhancing partnerships for a comprehensive response to increasing incidences of SGBV in the County.

The policy framework envisages a long term and sustained transformational change in the management of Sexual and Gender Based Violence cases in the County. This calls for adequate resource allocation by the County government to enhance partnerships with other stakeholders while also enhancing commitments by both state and non- state actors.

HON. SARAH MALIT
County Executive Committee Member
Gender, Youth, Sports Talent Development, Culture Heritage & Social Services.

Acknowledgement

The County Sexual and Gender Based Violence policy 2023 on Prevention, Response and Co-ordination of SGBV programs and projects has been prepared through a participatory process involving the County SGBV Technical Working Group that is composed of representatives of State and Non-State Actors in Homa Bay County. Inputs were made by all involved partners.

The team that developed this policy framework made great effort and commitment. The County particularly recognizes the staff of the Department of Gender Equality and Inclusivity, Youth, Sports, Talent Development, Culture Heritage and Social Services and Department of Health Services for their valuable commitment and input under the noble leadership of their County Executive Committee Members Hon. Sarah Malit and Hon. Roseline Omollo.

The production of this policy would not have been possible without the financial support of the County Government led by Her Excellency Governor Gladys Wanga, Office of Women Representative, Kenya Legal and Ethical Issues Network (KELIN), Family Health Options Kenya (FHOK), PATH-Kenya, LVCT, Practical Action, CATAG, NAYA Kenya, PLAN International, AMREF, GVRC Nairobi, Red Cross, Homa Bay County Disability Forum and CSO Network.

It is also worth noting that specific individuals/ institution played a key role in the SGBV Technical Working Group. This includes: Hon. Roseline Omollo (CEC, Health), Dr. Kevin Osuri (Chief Officer, Health), Dr. Gordon Okomo (Director Health Services), Mr. Michael Ochola (GBV Coordinator Homa Bay County, Ministry of Health), Department of Gender inclusivity, Youth, Sports, Culture Heritage and social services. Department of Education, PALAWAMA, WA-WA Kenya, Break through Action, State department of Gender Affairs and CATAG.

In a special way, we want to appreciate the effort of the County Assembly of Homa Bay County led by the committee in charge of Gender inclusivity, Sports, Youth, Culture in heritage and Social Services for their endless effort towards its legislative input in this document.

We also wish to acknowledge the Valuable input of the Policy Technical Development Team of Consultants led by Mr. Joel Okumu (Principal Consultant) and Dr. David Ambogo.

It is my conviction that based on this policy, the Department will be able to prevent and respond effectively to cases of SGBV within the County and in so doing create a secure environment for all the residents of the County. To those not mentioned here but contributed in one way or the other to the production of this policy we salute you.

MR. NYIERO OTIENO ELLY
Chief Officer
Department Of Gender, Youth, Sports Talent
Development, Culture Heritage & Social Services.

Executive Summary

Sexual and Gender Based Violence is a human rights violation with long term physical and psychological consequences on the victims as perpetrators most times go without conviction if the evidences collected are not corroborated to provide judicial processes with link to the perpetrators to the offence committed. It also affects the survivor's mental well-being due to stigmatization and the general discrimination they experience in the community. The impact of such violence extends far beyond the individual survivors, affecting households and communities, and spanning across generations. SGBV is widely recognized as a development constraint with reference to the World Bank report (2019).

According to the Kenya Demographic Health Survey (KDHS 2022), 54% of women aged 15-49 have ever experienced physical violence, while 23% have ever experienced Sexual Violence. The survey also revealed Homa Bay County was the leading county in Nyanza region in the prevalence of sexual violence.

The Kenyan government has put in various measures including legal mechanisms to address the myriad cases of SGBV. Homa Bay County through the Department of Gender Equality and Inclusivity, Youth, Sports Talent Development, Culture Heritage and Social Services and Health Services Department in consonance with partners in a Multi Sectorial Framework of SGBV Technical Working Group is also responding to the same challenges.

The main goal of this policy is to ultimately eliminate SGBV cases in Homa Bay County through a Multi sectorial framework in interventions and programming.

The policy has highlighted several strategies that will comprehensively promote prevention, protection and coordinated response towards the elimination of SGBV in the County. The departmental commitment through the policy framework of allocating a sixth of the County departmental budget towards combating SGBV is a significant bold commitment in the realization of the policy goal.

The policy envisages a participatory monitoring and evaluation in programs and projects aimed at enhancing the goal of the elimination of SGBV in the County. The involvement of the Community in every SGBV projects and programs will enhance reintegration of the survivors and perpetrators for family continuity and development.

CHAPTER 1

1.0. Introduction

Gender based violence is a globally prevalent phenomenon with health and dire human rights violations and implications. It knows no social, economic, class or cultural confinement. It occurs in families, schools, workplaces, social structures, and communities across the world. Sexual and Gender based violence (SGBV) is the most devastating form of gender inequality. More than one third of the women in the world have experienced some form of gender-based violence. The impacts of such violence extend far beyond the individual survivors, affecting households and communities, and spanning across generations. Sexual and Gender based Violence is widely recognized as a development constraint as revealed by the World Bank report (2013-2018). World Health report on violence and health discloses that Women and girls, and to a lower degree men and boys, directly experience the impact of some form of gender-based violence. The Report further reveals that women are disproportionately affected by SGBV, and this is evident by the fact that violence initiated by wives was only a fraction of the level of violence initiated by husbands.

According to the World Health Organization (WHO), 35% of women worldwide have experienced either physical and/or sexual intimate partner violence or non-partner sexual violence. The effects of violence experienced by women, such as intimate partner violence (IPV), are felt at the individual, family, and community levels. Consequences of violence include increased risk for suicide, alcohol abuse, as well as negative impacts on human development outcomes. The unequal system of patriarchy governs various aspects of Kenyan society. SGBV is commonly an act of patriarchy. It is perpetrated by persons who wish to exercise power and control over their survivors. These perpetrators can be anyone, from family members, intimate partners, acquaintances, strangers or institutions (Pypers, E. 2020).

Government of Kenya is committed towards eliminating gender inequalities. The Constitution 2010 is a progressive document which has made it possible for development of policy and legislative frameworks on comprehensive prevention, protection, response, and management of SGBV. The Constitution promotes equality for all persons while prohibiting all forms of discrimination and calls for protection of all persons by the respective agencies.

Commitment to addressing SGBV has accelerated faster in policy documents than in implementation of the said policy to the grass root levels of society. Further to this, there is a complete disconnect between the envisioned legislation, the experiences of the survivors and implementation through practical operations of the laws within different sectors. The devotion to fight all forms of SGBV calls for enhanced multi-sectorial and well-coordinated approach within relevant structures and agencies. It is on the same premise that the County government of Homa Bay through the department of Gender and Social Services and SGBV Technical Working Group has initiated a guiding framework aimed at eradicating SGBV in the County through a Multi-Sectorial Approach in intervention and programming.

1.1. Rationale

Sexual and Gender Based Violence Policy is a grave human rights violation that causes long-term and life-threatening harm to victims. It affects all aspects of a person's protection and well-being. It includes physical, sexual, and psychological violence perpetrated or condoned within the family, the general community or by the State and its institutions. National data reveals SGBV is prevalent in Kenya with variations across counties and cultures. Women and girls are disproportionately affected by SGBV; however, men and boys also experience SGBV. There is alarming evidence that orphans, school going children, Persons with Disabilities, the elderly, and persons in humanitarian crisis situations are most vulnerable to SGBV. The high prevalence of SGBV in Kenya and its negative impact on the society necessitates the development of a comprehensive policy framework to ensure effective prevention of response to and management of SGBV. SGBV in its various manifestations detrimentally affects individuals, their families and the entire community.

Sexual and Gender Based Violence violates the fundamental right to life, liberty, security, dignity, non-discrimination, and physical and mental integrity, and is therefore a direct breach of the Constitution of Kenya. At the individual level Sexual and Gender Based Violence results in pain and psychological trauma. At the social level SGBV often results into breakdown of the family unit. Economically, SGBV results in an economic burden on the government in terms of increased spending on health care, social services, and the civil and criminal justice system, absenteeism from work, and low productivity and output. SGBV creates an unequal political environment in which all those affected are denied the opportunity to participate in decision making for development.

There are many efforts by state and non-state actors working on prevention and response SGBV in Kenya. However, in Homa Bay County there is need for a well-coordinated framework that strengthens the Multispectral Approach in handling SGBV; this is needed in order to provide an overall guiding framework for the effective management of SGBV interventions. A policy framework would help demystify misconceptions around SGBV and aid in effective SGBV prevention and response. In addition, there is limited information to victims, who experience violence on where to seek support.

Furthermore, there is also lack of standardized data management tools, systems and a monitoring and evaluation framework for SGBV intervention. The SGBV policy will facilitate the development of a well-coordinated comprehensive Monitoring & Evaluation framework. SGBV prevention and response interventions require significant human and financial resources. This policy will provide an enabling environment for adequate resource allocation from the County government and partners.

1.2. Goals

The goal of the policy is to ultimately eliminate SGBV cases in Homa-Bay County through a multi-sectorial approach in interventions and programming.

1.3. Purpose

To involve all the state and non-state actors in the implementation of laws and policies that strengthens programs for prevention and management of SGBV in Homa Bay County

1.4. Vision

A county free from all forms of SGBV and upholds equal human rights and dignity for all.

1.5. Policy Objectives

1.5.1. Overall Objective:

The overall objective of the policy is to eliminate SGBV incidences through a multi-sectorial approach that will comprehensively promote prevention, protection and coordinated response to enhance access to justice and well-being for survivors/victims and perpetrators in the County.

1.5.2. Specific Objectives

- To Develop programs and initiatives that promote preventive measures to address SGBV in Homa Bay county
- To Promote protective measures to ensure
- Safety of SGBV survivors in Homa Bay County

- To establish a timely response to cases of SGBV with appropriate interventions by relevant actors in Homa Bay County
- To develop coordinated accountability measures that will enhance the efficient and effective delivery of SGBV interventions in Homa Bay County.

1.6. Guiding policy principles

National policy against gender-based violence 2014 and Sessional Paper No.2 of 2019 on National Policy on Gender and Development

Kenya recognizes SGBV as a damning violation of human rights. It takes cognizant of the fact that women and girls suffer disproportionately against SGBV. Kenya is committed to ensure promotion of gender equality and empowerment of women. The government is bestowed with the powers to prevent and provide timely response to all forms of gender-based violence in society in a harmonized and well-coordinated approach.

Consideration of harmful traditional practice

Gender based violence is manifested because of misunderstanding and misguided toxic cultural values and norms in the society. State and non-state agencies need to work in harmony in fighting these negative attitudes on gender, traditions, and in human practices to eliminate the culture of silence on SGBV. On the other hand, positive traditional values that promote non-discrimination, respect and protection of victims can be embraced to foster an intolerant society to SGBV.

Laws and policies against SGBV and which promote human rights and development

The legislative frameworks consist of laws that regulate roles and responsibilities of persons in the society. The law provides a set of rules and guidelines that oblige or prohibit certain types of behavior. Policies lay down government commitment and priorities, providing the framework for realizing these goals. Laws and policies must therefore work towards the attainment of development goals, advance human rights, creating a just and equitable society.

Male Involvement

Data reveal that women and girls comprise most of the survivors of SGBV worldwide. This is reflected nationally and in Homa Bay County. However, men and boys are also affected by SGBV both as survivors, and perpetrators. Therefore, while SGBV is often viewed as negatively impacting the feminine gender, long-term solutions to prevent and respond to SGBV must include the participation of men and boys. Strategies to prevent and respond to SGBV should therefore include dialogue between men and women, boys and girls with an aim of changing the cultural, social, economic and other structures and systems that deny realization of human rights and equality between women and men, boys and girls.

Responsibility of National and County Government, communities, and Individuals

Elected, nominated, and appointed leaders have a crucial role in preventing SGBV and in providing support to survivors. Moreover, communities and individuals must recognize their responsibility: to report SGBV cases, support survivors hence demonstrate to perpetrators that SGBV will not be tolerated in the community.

1.7. Approaches adopted to policy implementation

- Human rights-based approaches
- Gender responsive approaches
- Survivors centered approach: Emphasis on the survivor centered
- Integrative and collaborative approach
- Evidence based
- Public participation approach
- Economic empowerment approach
- Accountability and social mobilization.

CHAPTER 2 SITUATION ANALYSIS

1.1. Introduction

Sexual and Gender Based Violence (SGBV) is the most under-reported form of violence World over, with very limited data collected. From the limited data obtained from various sources, women and girls are mostly affected by this form of violence unlike men and boys.

Sexual and Gender-based violence (SGBV) is a particularly disturbing phenomenon which exists in all regions of the world. Homa Bay County being one of the Counties in Kenya is not left out. In 1993, the UN Declaration on the Elimination of Violence against Women offered the first official definition of gender-based violence as any act of gender-based violence that results in, or is likely to result in, physical, sexual or psychological harm or suffering to women, including threats of such acts, coercion or arbitrary deprivations of liberty, whether occurring in public or in private life.

The impact of SGBV is devastating. The individual women and girls who are the majority survivors of such violence often experience life-long emotional distress, mental health problems and poor reproductive health, as well as being at higher risk of acquiring HIV and intensive long-term users of health services. In addition, the cost to women, their children, families, and communities is a significant obstacle to reducing poverty, achieving gender equality, and ensuring a peaceful transition for post-conflict societies. This, in conjunction with the mental and physical health implications of gender-based violence, impacts on a state or region's ability to develop and construct a stable, productive society, or reconstruct a country in the wake of conflict.

Kenya government like the rest of the World has put in various measures including legal mechanisms to address the myriad cases of SGBV. Homa Bay County is also responding to the same challenges posed by SGBV through a policy framework with various sourced data painting a grim picture and a drastic rise in the cases of defilements (85.3%) among other forms of SGBV reported.

Effective protection can be established only by preventing SGBV, identifying risks and responding to survivors, using a coordinated, multi-sectoral approach. The present protection environment in Kenya is fraught with challenges and filled with opportunities, which should be carefully considered when devising responses. Whereas the Kenyan legal framework provides a mechanism for addressing SGBV, the levels to which the frameworks respond to the plight of the survivors of SGBV is debatable. The legal and policy framework mostly focuses on bringing of the accused person to 'justice' without a corresponding obligation of alleviating the conditions of the survivor of SGBV. In fact, the survivor of SGBV is more of an alien to the criminal justice system because the offence is perceived by the system to have been committed against the state, not against the survivor of the SGBV as an individual. The Homa Bay County policy framework proposes to adopt a robust and comprehensive referral mechanism that will be integrative and collaborative by ensuring that the survivor and perpetrator rights are properly entrenched in the community set up for purposes of rehabilitation and restoration.

2.1. Forms and Prevalence of Sexual and Gender-Based Violence in Kenya

2.1.1. Prevalence of Sexual and Gender Based Violence

In Kenya, SGBV manifests in various forms. The nature and extent of specific forms of SGBV vary across the different socio-economic and cultural background. The most reported forms of violence include sexual exploitation and abuse; forced prostitution; domestic violence; human trafficking; forced or child marriage; and harmful traditional practices such as female genital mutilation, honor killings, widow inheritance, among others. The violence registered by the survey could be linked to certain cultural beliefs and traditions, post-

Election violence as well as socio-economic status of the vulnerable groups. There is glaring evidence from the National Crimes Research Centre NCRC (2020) that Homa Bay County statistics is above the national threshold of SGBV violations in the Country.

Comparative data for Homabay County against the National statistics.

Data from the National Crime Research Centre 2020 (NCRC) shows that cases of Sexual and Gender Based Violence in Homa Bay County are way above the National statistics.

Crime	County%	National %
Rape	38.6	12.9
Assault	54.5	15.7
Defilement	30.1	7.1
Child abuse (other than sexual)	7.1	4.3
Domestic violence	16	9.2

Homabay County SGBV prevalence frequency data

Monthly prevalence cases of SGBV data from the Police Gender Desk shows that cases of defilement is leading (85.3%) followed by rape cases at 5% a clear manifestation of high teen pregnancies in the County in similar period as a resultant effect.

Forms of SGBV in Homabay County policy seeks to address. A situational analysis report from KELIN 2019 has provided evidence from the grassroots on the link between gender-based violence (SGBV), teenage pregnancies and the high HIV prevalence among adolescents and young women aged 15-24 years within Homa Bay County.

2.1.2. Forms of SGBV in Kenya

2.1.2.1. Sexual violence

Sexual violence is a serious public health and human rights concern in Kenya. It affects men and women, boys and girls and has adverse physical and Psycho-social consequences on the survivor. It is the leading form of SGBV in the country, and different reports indicate increasing incidence. The number of persons reported to the police as having committed crimes against morality increased by 11.3% from 7233 in 2018 to 8051 in 2019. Defilement, which accounted for 76.4% of all crimes against morality increased by 13.2% from 4767 in 2018 to 5397 in 2019. In the same period, those reported to have committed rape increased by 3.1% from 921 to 950. Persons reported having committed assault increased by 1.3% to 16304 in 2019, with males accounting for 75.7% of the total cases of assault.

Results from KDHS 2022 also indicate that The percentage of women who have experienced sexual violence increases with age, from 7% among those age 15–19 to 18% among those age 40–49. By county, the percentages of women who have experienced sexual violence are highest in Bungoma (30%), Murang'a (24%), Homa Bay (23%), and Embu (22%). The Kenya Violence against Children Survey (KVACS) 2010 shows that violence against children is a serious problem in Kenya. Levels of violence prior to age 18 as reported by 18- to 24-year-olds (lifetime experiences) indicate that during childhood: 32% of females and 18% of males experience sexual violence. Current levels (12 months prior to the survey) of violence reported by 13 to 17 year-olds indicated that 11% of females and 4% of males experienced sexual violence.

A report from VACS 2019 indicated that among those who experienced any sexual violence in childhood, 41.3% of females told someone about their experience (Figure 4.4). This estimate was unreliable among males. Females most disclosed to a relative (57.6%) or a friend or neighbor (35.3%). Only around one third of females (34.8%) and males (34.2%) who experienced childhood sexual violence knew of a place where to seek medical services.

Sexual Violence and its attendant consequences threaten the attainment of global development goals espoused in the Sustainable Development Goals (SDG) and National goals contained in Vision 2030 as well as the National Health Sector Strategic Plan II, as it affects the health and wellbeing of the survivor.

Of concern is the emerging evidence worldwide that Sexual Violence is an important risk factor contributing towards vulnerability to HIV infection.

2.1.2.2. Physical Violence

Physical violence is prevalent in Kenya especially against women. Results from KDHS 2022, revealed that 34% of women have experienced Physical violence since ages 15. This data further revealed that experience of physical violence differs by background characteristics. Experience of violence among women increases with age; 20% of women aged 15–19 have experienced physical violence since age 15, as compared with 42% of women age 45–49. By county, the percentage of women who have experienced physical violence since age 15 is highest in Bungoma (62%) and lowest in Mandera (9%)

A report from VACS 2019 shows that 2 out of 3 female and 1 out of 2 male children experience some form of physical violence in their childhood. 1 out of 5 female and male experienced physical violence by parents, care givers or adult relative among age 13–17 years. Among 13–17-year-olds who experienced any physical violence, one third of females (34.4%) and males (33.1%) told someone about an experience of physical violence. Both females (68.5%) and males (76.5%) most commonly told a relative, followed by a friend or neighbor (females, 26.4%; males, 34.1%). More than one out of four females (28.0%) and males (23.9%) who experienced physical violence knew of a place to seek help for physical violence. Only 6.0% of females and 5.7% of males sought help for an experience of physical violence, and 4.4% of females received help. The estimate for service receipt for males was unreliable. Among those 13–17-year-old females who experienced physical violence in the past 12 months and did not seek services, the most common reasons were that they did not think it was a problem (42.5%) or felt that it was their fault (23.4%). For males, the most common reasons for not seeking services were that they did not think it was a problem (54.4%) or felt it was their fault (15.6%).

2.1.2.3. Domestic Violence

Domestic violence is assault and/or abuse perpetrated by a family member against another. It includes physical violence, psychological violence, and emotional abuse. It is often accompanied by emotional abusive and controlling behavior. Domestic violence can result in physical injury, psychological trauma, and in severe cases, even death. The devastating physical, emotional, and psychological consequences of domestic violence can cross generations. Most domestic violence cases go unreported due to fear of stigmatization and family interference.

The year 2018, there were a total of 148 cases reported to the National Police Service (NPS) Data Unit. Western region reported the largest numbers of cases at 39 cases. It was followed by Rift Valley region at 24 cases, Nyanza at 21 and Central at 19 cases respectively. Most of the survivors were women, girls, men and boys in that order.

2.1.2.4. Harmful Cultural Practices

Harmful cultural practices such as child marriages, forced marriages, forced widow inheritance, and ritual killings amongst others are practiced.

The customs of widow cleansing and widow inheritance are practiced in several communities throughout sub-Saharan Africa. In the Nyanza Province of Kenya, according to Luo tradition, widows are expected to engage in sexual intercourse with a "cleanser," without the use of a condom, in order to remove the impurity ascribed to her after her husband's death. Luo couples, including widows, are also expected to engage in sex preceding specific agricultural activities, building homes, funerals, weddings, and other significant cultural and social events.

According to KEPHIA report 2018 the HIV prevalence rate in Kenya had dropped to 4.9% in the same period HIV prevalence rate in Homa Bay County was at 20.6%, this percentage has since dropped to 18% currently though the figure is still way above the National prevalence rate and is leading in the four Counties of Luo Nyanza. It is further revealed that the prevalence of HIV in Women is at 6.6%, twice that in men which is at 3.1%, the gender disparity is even greater than 3 times in between the ages of 20-34 years. There is thus a strong relationship between HIV prevalence and SGBV prevalence among women and girls.

Widows who are inherited for the purpose of fulfilling cultural obligation have a higher prevalence of HIV than those who remain un-inherited or are inherited for the purpose of companionship. Nyanza Province has a high prevalence of HIV infection among widows (63%), and that widows who are inherited for the purpose of performing sexual rituals have increased

Odds of being infected with HIV when compared with widows who are not inherited or are inherited for the purpose of companionship, and only 2.7% of widows reported having used a condom since the death of their husbands.

2.1.2.5. Emotional and Psychological Violence

Emotional and psychological violence has been mostly overlooked by actors because of its personal or private nature. It includes practices such as confinement, controlling socialization, unfaithfulness, emotional abuse amongst others. The KDHS 2014 indicates that the main controlling behaviors women experienced from their husbands were jealousy or anger if they talked to other men (53%) and insisting on knowing where they are always (41%). For men, the main controlling behaviors experienced from wives were jealousy or anger if they talked to other women (58%) and insisting on knowing where they were at all times (43%). 44% of husbands and 53% of wives in Nyanza control their partners' movements respectively. Emotional violence is more prevalent in Western (46%) followed by Nyanza at 40% This type of violence precipitates the other forms of violence and is therefore a strategic type to focus on to realize prevention goals.

2.1.2.6. Human Trafficking

A new US report 2020 on global human trafficking trends has put Kenya in the list of countries with the worst human trafficking problems in the world.

The Trafficking in Persons Report 2020 says traffickers exploit domestic and foreign survivors in Kenya.

"Within the country, traffickers exploit children through forced labor in domestic service, agriculture, fishing, cattle herding, street vending, and begging," says the report Children are also exploited in sex trafficking by people working in khat (miraa) cultivation areas and near gold mines in Western Kenya, truck drivers on highway and fishermen on Lake Victoria.

Human trafficking is a crime against humanity and involves the acts of recruiting, transporting, transferring, harboring persons through use of force or other means for the purpose of sexual exploitation, slavery, forced marriage or illegal adoption. As reported over the past five years, Kenya is a source, transit, and destination country for men, women, and children subjected to forced labor and sex trafficking. With Homa Bay County, being a transit route to border Counties of Migori and Kisii.

2.2. Legislative & Policy Framework

2.2.1. International legislative frameworks

Article 2 (6) of the Kenyan constitution 2010 states that: Any treaty or convention ratified by Kenya shall form part of the law of Kenya under the constitution.

- Beijing declaration and platform for action (1995),
- AU Agenda2063,
- Maputo protocol,
- CEDAW 1979 and
- SDG 5, 10.

2.2.2. National legislative and policy framework.

Kenya has been at the fore front in efforts to eliminate all forms of SGBV as envisaged by the constitution of Kenya 2010. By virtue of a Constitutional provision, all international and regional legislative and policy frameworks adopted and ratified by Kenya have become part of the domesticated laws to fight SGBV. Within this context, Kenya has taken steps in ratifying international treaties and regional conventions on elimination of SGBV and gender inequality. She has also put in place a national policy and legislative framework that supports the campaign against all forms of SGBV in practice.

Globally, the Beijing Declaration and Platform for

2.1.2.7. Intimate Partner Violence (IPV)

IPV is a pattern of abusive behavior in any intimate relationship that is directed towards a current or former spouse, boyfriend or girlfriend. Intimate Partner Violence can be physical, emotional, economic, or sexual in nature.

Action of 1995 adopted a set of priority areas which Kenya acceded to.

The prohibitions on sex discrimination in the UN Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women encompass SGBV.

The UN Convention on the Rights of the Child requires State Parties to protect children from all forms of violence, maltreatment, or exploitation, including sexual abuse.

The UN Declaration on the Elimination of Violence against Women affirms that violence against women constitutes a violation of the rights and fundamental freedoms of women.

SDG No 5 Achieving gender equality and empowering all women and girls including women and girls with disability.

Further, the African Union (AU) adopted the Protocol to the African Charter on Human and Peoples' Rights on the Rights of Women in Africa (Maputo Protocol) in 2003 which was ratified by Kenya in 2010.

The Protocol to the African Charter on Human and Peoples' Rights on the Rights of Women in Africa devotes Article 4 entirely to the topic of violence against women, calling for a range of state measures to address violence which takes place "in private or public", including the punishment of perpetrators, the identification of causes of violence against women and the provision of services for survivors.

CHAPTER 4

SGBV POLICY IMPLEMENTATION FRAMEWORK

4.0. Introduction

The main goal of this policy framework is to provide a strategic guide for the progressive eradication and prevention of future emerging forms of SGBV incidences in Homa Bay County.

This policy will adopt a collaborative multi agency approach for the implementation of programs (Prevention, response, and protection), effective coordination, Monitoring and Evaluation, public participation, and legal instruments and frameworks

The county government of Homa Bay commits to work with the international agencies, national government entities, development partners, civil society organizations, private sectors and the Citizens of Homa Bay County.

There is political good will at both National and County government to address SGBV as a violation of human rights, impediment to economic development and emerging social crisis. However, there are existing gaps that hinder the county government from addressing SGBV such as inadequate coordination of existing legal frameworks, resource allocation to SGBV programs, lack of a centralized SGBV management information system.

In addition to the above challenges, the existing cultural practices such as wife inheritance, widow cleansing, fish for sex (Jaboya culture), kangaroo courts, child marriage, disability myths and negative attitude (contributing to increase of all forms of SGBV) towards the elderly that complicates SGBV and therefore calls for multi-sectorial approach.

4.1. Multi agency roles and responsibilities

The County governments of Homa Bay commits to resource mobilize and allocate funds to implement SGBV programs and initiatives. To achieve this, there is need for enhanced coordination through defined Multi Sectorial Approach at the County. Each agency will effectively promote and coordinate strong response in strengthening SGBV referral systems.

The county is mandated to strengthen the county SGBV management team and establish Multiagency SGBV management teams at ward, and sub-county levels to coordinate and implement eradication of SGBV

4.2. Coordination Framework

The Policy shall adopt a coordinated approach that ensures the design and implementation of SGBV programs strategies towards the prevention, protection, response mechanisms and monitoring and evaluation.

The Policy envisages the creation of an accountability platform from Community to County levels in an effort to strengthen SGBV eradication programs in the County.

The Policy framework is underpinned on the following.

- Efficiency and effectiveness in resources utilization (financial, human resources etc.) towards SGBV interventions.
- Enhance data management and usage for decision making on service delivery, resource mobilization and advocacy.
- Timely access to services by SGBV survivors & perpetrators-client centered approach to comprehensive referral services.
- Leaders' accountability and responsibility on legal reforms, advocacy and programming at both National and County levels.
- Partners' involvement through a Multi Sectorial Approach.

The policy has adopted National Standards of Gender Policy 2014 and models developed by Gender and Equality Commission (2017) in its structures while the coordination structure epitomizes the State Department of Gender Affairs new model of coordination of Gender Sector Working Groups in the Counties.

COUNTY GENDER SECTOR WORKING GROUP

Gender being a cross cutting issue envisages a well-coordinated working of all sector players in a multi-sectorial framework, this is legally espoused in the Constitution 2010 Article 6(2), the National and County Government are distinct and interdependent and shall conduct their mutual relations on the basis of consultation and co-operation. The Coordination at the National level just like at the County level shall be through County Gender Sector Working Group that brings together all the actors (both state and non-state) intervening in the sector.

The purpose of consultation framework is to provide a mechanism of consultation, co-ordination and cooperation between the National government and County government on issues of gender equality, empowerment and promotion of Human rights.

The sector working group is consolidated and coordinated under sector thematic areas; GBV, Women in Leadership and Decision making, Socioeconomic empowerment and financial inclusion, Women in Peace building and Conflict Resolution among other relevant subcommittees.

This policy shall be coordinated under the GBV subcommittee due to the nature of GBV issues, being that they are attached to human rights, medical issues and community affairs.

The leadership of the GBV sector subcommittee shall be chaired by the department of Gender and the secretary shall be non-state actor as other members shall form the steering team.

Secretary shall be rotational as the GBV Committee shall decide.

The Core functions of the GBV committee shall be;

- To harmonize the GBV prevention, protection and coordination programs and projects.
- To develop joint implementation strategies as the policy provides
- To make policy programs and projects budgeting and review.
- To carry out the GBV monitoring and evaluation to ascertain the success and adjust on areas of weakness as per the policy program implementation strategy.

The County GBV subcommittee shall cascade their programs to Sub Counties, Ward and Village levels to help in strengthening the surveillance and monitoring for enhanced GBV prevention, protection and coordination

4.3. Monitoring and Evaluation

M&E Will identify and resource for specially-commissioned impact assessment, case studies and specialist technical evaluations.

Monitoring and evaluation will be at various levels; Monitoring will be undertaken to facilitate information dissemination and sharing. The evaluation will seek to attain the achievement of outputs and impact at the objectives level and confirm that Program activities have been carried out effectively and to appropriate quality standards.

This policy will outline the monitoring and evaluation framework as informed by the sector specific M&E plans. The monitoring framework will outline the indicators and monitoring processes to be adapted. The monitoring and evaluation framework will include policy objectives, programmatic strategies, activities, outcomes, outputs and indicators that will guide performance and policy progress reviews.

The policy framework will be evaluated at county, sub-county and ward level through the involvement of relevant National and County departments, SGBV TWG and CSOs

The key monitoring activities will consist of:

- Collation of sex and age disaggregated data on SGBV cases reported in health facilities, police stations, the judiciary, children department, implementing partners, ministry of interior, Kenya National bureau of statistics, research institutions.
- Coordinate partner monitoring visits to measure progress of output and measure indicators
- Develop framework for measuring milestones
- Mid and end term reviews of the policy.
- Identify best practices as informed by programmatic and advocacy mechanisms
- Quarterly review meetings to measure the performance indicators

4.4. Policy review

This policy may be reviewed after every three years to address emerging issues and changes on the social economic trends in Homa Bay County.

4.5. Policy Financing

This Policy shall be financed by the County government of Homa Bay which Commits at least a 1/6 of the County Departmental annual budget to address SGBV issues.

4.6. Resource Mobilization

The County government of Homa Bay shall from time-to-time resource mobilize in collaboration with partners to address SGBV issues
